

Marshall Verbsky

makes music. Let's take a listen.

Howdy! I'm Marshall Verbsky, a singer/songwriter currently based out of Cincinnati, Ohio. I'm a passionate musician and a dynamic performer, experienced in handling crowds both big and small.

At the present moment, I'm re-recording and releasing an expanded version of my debut album, With Soul Set Free, along with gigging just about as often as I can. If you're reading this, I'm especially interested in bringing my music and stories your way. I very much hope to meet you soon!

Musically yours,
--Marshall

HIGH RES IMAGES

He's been writing songs his whole life, but his love for the guitar is more recent. It was just 6 years ago when he picked up the guitar as a way to deal with his insomnia.

// From: Cincinnati, OH

// Genre: Folk

// Years active: 2019-Present

Marshall plays almost exclusively in Double-Drop-D. He believes that tuning has an unmatched tonality and flexibility...and it certainly contributes to his unique sound.

Marshall says he draws most of his inspiration from the folk world's modern storytellers. His favorites are --- Chris Thile, Robin Pecknold, and Evan Stephens Hall.

In Marshall's words: "All I want to do is affect positive change in the world through my music. If I can make even one person feel a little less alone, then I've done my job."
